

We present steepest descent algorithm for regularization and fitting of line or surface data to raster images. Graph cut minimization is used to find direction of the descent in every iteration. The method is demonstrated on capillaries and surfaces of muscle fibers in confocal images of skeletal muscles.