

Presented paper is focused on head position monitoring after special ophthalmological operation - vitrectomy. MEMS accelerometer based biofeedback device is capable to warn the patient in case of improper head position. It is also great feedback for ophthalmologists.