

Metallothionein is a small protein of which primary function is in keeping of metals homoeostasis in living organisms. The main aim of this paper is processing of electrochemical catalytical signals of metallothionein.